Many people believe that living in the countryside is the ideal, but it is not working well for me. Firstly, there is very little choice when it comes to shopping. There are not many shops in my area, just one supermarket. It is two kilometers from my house, so even if I only need some milk, I have to get in the car. Another reason is that the internet service is very poor. Usually, it is so slow that I can't watch a video. Even worse, it sometimes goes down completely in the evening. Finally, and most importantly for me, there is not much opportunity when it comes to working. Most companies have their offices in the city, so if I want to find interesting work, I will have to commute for two hours. In brief, country living is not as great as people think. In my opinion, it is very inconvenient. I am going to move to the city as soon as I can find a job there.
